

A function is a rule

A small example: double, then add one.